I HAVE TESTED MY DNA - WHAT CAN I LEARN FROM THE RESULTS?

Speaker: Christine Green

What do those results from your DNA test tell you and how to understand all that unfamiliar terminology.

Christine will explain to us how to decipher the results and what they mean to us and how they can help us understand our ancestors.

EBGS DOES NOT MEET IN AUGUST

YOU ARE FREE TO ROAM THE COUNTRY GATHERING STORIES FOR THIS NEWSLETTER!

Be sure to look over the items in the "Mark Your Calendar" section. You'll find many interesting classes, tours, or programs taking place around the Bay Area and environs. If you are going to be out and about during the summer, some of these may be of interest to you.

Looking Back at May: My goodness...we had a very nice attendance at our Annual Luncheon at Pier 29. It was great to see so many members there and some quests also.

Everyone seemed to be enjoying the afternoon - there was constant chatter all through the meal and after. Thanks to Pier 29 for treating us so well. Thanks to all who attended.

Looking Back at June: Stephen Morse presented an absolutely fascinating tale of how he gathered genealogy information on a person, knowing only her maiden name and her brother's name when he began his search. He stressed searching for any and all documents relating to your research and keeping an outline of information found and recording all dates, names, etc. even when they differ. Using primarily his One-Step Website, within four hours or so he had amassed quite a collection of documents and information relating to Renee Kaufman. His One-step Website is terrific! We are thrilled that he has promised to return to EBGs in February to explain One-Step Website in more detail. Don't miss it!

EBGS NEWS: DUES ARE DUE JULY 1ST...

Thank you to those of you who have already renewed. There is a Membership Renewal form at the back of this newsletter for those of you who have not yet renewed your membership. Your dues helps keep this society alive and kicking - please renew and enjoy the interesting programs we have planned for this year.

If you would like to receive this newsletter by email, please contact me and provide your email address. You can reach me at c-kstorm@juno.com.

We understand that our secretary, Jean Christie, is out of rehab following her hip replacement and home and doing quite well. We look forward to having her back in our midst real soon.

In Memoriam: The Society extends its sincere condolences to our member and Publicity Chairman, Lynne Bajuk, for the loss of her son John. John was a very intelligent man and an avid jigsaw puzzler - the more difficult they were, the better he liked them.

Get Ready For Our September Meeting: Along with a brief story and explanation on writing a history of an ancestor...we plan to have a "Silent Auction". Please cull your book collection, forms, etc. for anything you wish to contribute. The proceeds will go to EBGs. Leftovers will be donated to the Oakland FHC or a library book sale - and, yes, of course, you may take home any items of yours that did not sell at the auction if you wish

ITEMS OF INTEREST

New Mexico History Museum/Palace of the Governors: "Fractured Faiths: Spanish Judaism, The Inquisition, and New World Identities" Exhibit opened May 22, 2016 The Mexican History Museum is located at 113 Lincoln Avenue, Santa Fe, NM 97501 ph: 505-478-5200

From the exhibit handout: "Thousands of families hid from the Spanish Inquisition and preserved family traditions of Jewish memory in darkened rooms for generations..." "In Expressions of Complex Identities, Sephardic Jews, Conversos and Crypto-Jews, you will experience a fascinating secret history of religious practices that endured for 500 years." The Jews who converted to Catholicism (known as Conversos) and chose to remain in Spain, lived under constant threat of the Inquisition which had been established to find and arrest any Jews who continued to practice Judaism in secret. Those who continued to practice Judaism in secret, became known as Crypto (or hidden) Jews. Over the years their descendants became skillful at hiding their secret practices, thus allowing the Crypto-Jews to survive." (excerpt and edited from Huellas Del Pasado, newsletter of the Genealogical Society of Hispanic America, May 2016)

What's new on line?: Findmypast in conjunction with FamilySearch has recently made available on line:

* U. S. Marriages: Over 10 million new records. They include generous additions from Indiana, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Maine.

*Yorkshire Baptisms: Over 2.2 million new records, including first names of their parents as well as when and where they were born.

*Ireland Surnames and Family Histories: A collection of nine assorted publications containing more than 7,000 individual records.

*Devon, Plymouth Prison Records: Over 13,000 records of prisoners and prison officers in the 19th and early 19th and 20th century.

"Geman Census Records, 1816-1916: The When, Where, and How of a Valuable Genealogical Resource" By Roger P. Minert, Ph.D., A.G.; 2016. Written in English. Available through familyrootspublishing.com/

Researchers can now learn where and when German census records were compiled as well as why and how. The author also describes state by state the content of census records and explains how surviving census documents can be located. This is groundbreaking information of enormous value to anyone researching their German roots.

Fodder For Those Ancestral Biographies or Stories YOU WILL Write Some Day! Naturally, you want to include more than dates of births, marriages and deaths. What was going on in the world at the time some of these events occurred? The front pages of a major newspaper in the area where your ancestor resided may give some insight as to what was going on in the world at the time. County and/or city histories of where your ancestors lived could also prove useful, as well as local daily or weekly newspapers in their residential area. You may also want to consult "Chronology of the United States", by John Clements.

In an article written by Michael John Neill in Ancestry Daily News, he suggests searching Pension Files and County Court and Probate Records...not only for your direct ancestors but also for collateral relations and siblings. Divorce and Probate/Estate Records may not only yield some interesting facts about your family's relations with each other but could uncover relatives or siblings of which you may not have been aware.

The National Archives holds copies of federal pension records. Records of Confederate pensions are generally held by the appropriate state archives.

For future generations, why not jot down some notes on yourself and your experiences? Your writing need not be eloquent or formal...the key is to write something. What were you doing or where were you at the time of some historical event? What happened years ago that still makes you chuckle when you remember it today? Just do it! (portions of the above excerpted from San Luis Obispo County Genealogical Society BULLETIN, Vol. 49, No.1, May 2016).

Ships Registries: The UK Archives (formerly the Public Records Office) holds many open-access records of British ship registries, one of which is their BT series. This set of records is especially useful for those looking for information on ancestors who came from the Azores and Madeira to Hawaii and the U. S. on British registered ships. Regular passenger lists do not always give details of births, marriages or deaths aboard the ship. You can search the index of these records for free. When you find the actual page that has the information you are seeking you can order/purchase a copy of the record. Although you have to pay for the copy of the record, it is worth it if you find what you were looking for - and the looking is free.

Go to: <http://www.bmdregisters.co.uk/> From their website: BT158 Registry of Shipping and Seamen: Registers of Births, Deaths, and Marriages of Passengers at Sea. Covering dates 1854-1908. These are registers compiled from ships' official logs of births, deaths, and marriages of passengers at sea by the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen (RGSS) and its predecessor. From 1874, the RGSS was required to report births and deaths at sea aboard all ships registered in Britain or its colonies and on foreign-registered ships carrying passengers to or from the UK, to the Registrars General of England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland (the General Register Offices). The name of the series is misleading, as it includes events related to persons of any nationality not just British nationals. It should also cover events on foreign-registered passenger ships travelling to or from a UK port, but there is little evidence of this in the registers themselves. (from Monterey County Genealogical Society Newsletter, March/April 2014)

Preserving Old or Antique Clothing: Make sure it is as clean as possible. If washable, use a very mild soap and wash gently. If not washable, consult with a professional dry cleaner (not necessarily the clerk at the counter of your local dry cleaners). Once the item is clean, fold it with as few creases as possible. Pad the sleeves, shoulders and bodice with acid-free tissue paper, clean white cotton sheeting or muslin. Pad each fold so that no sharp creases form. Place the item in an acid-free box and place the box in a cool, dry place. You may place more than one item in a box; however, do not pack it too tightly or make it too heavy. The whole idea is to allow space around items so that they are not crushed. Inspect the items annually and refold them in a different direction so that creases will not set, and replace any tissue or cloth that is discolored..

Editors Note: I just recently donated my wedding gown and my late sister's wedding gown to the Alameda Historical Museum. They have a June exhibit of wedding gowns of Alameda persons. Lynda and I were both Alameda born, so they were delighted to have them. They asked for information on where they were purchased, date of the weddings, etc. I also provided photographs. Didn't make sense to keep them stored in the back of the closet any longer. The museum will carefully clean and preserve them; which means I do not have to! It was a win-win situation. This weekend I plan to visit the exhibit.

Today's short reading from the Bible.. "And God promised man that good and obedient wives would be found in all corners of the earth"...and then He made the earth round...and He laughed and laughed.

STANISLAUS COUNTY, CALIFORNIA - A Thumbnail Sketch

Stanislaus County is located in California's Central Valley. In 2010 the population was 514, 453. Much of the area west of the San Joaquin River in the county is devoted to agriculture. Part of the San Joaquin River National Wildlife Refuge is within Stanislaus County.

A good portion of Stanislaus County was originally composed of several government and Spanish land grants. The county was formed from parts of Tuolumne County in 1854. There were several county seats until 1871 when the city of Modesto was permanently established as the county seat.
